

Statistics for the SDGs - global indicators

| Goal 5. Gender equality   | Name of the indicator          | 5.5.2 Proportion of women in managerial positions   |
|---|--------------------------------|---|
| at all levels of decision-making in political, economic and public life  The indicator presents the share of women in the total number of persons employed in managerial positions.  Employed persons are defined as the persons who have worked in the surveyed units for the whole October of the given year, full- or part-time as established for the given enterprise or position.  Unit  Percent [%]  Available dimensions  This indicator is calculated from the data obtained in the survey on the structure of wages and salaries by occupations.  The survey on the structure of wages and salaries by occupations is a survey carried out with biennial frequency. It covers enterprises of national economy with the number of the employed persons exceeding 9 persons.  The data cover full- and part-time employees who worked in the surveyed units whole month of October.  The survey does not include: apprentices, persons engaged in outwork (home-workers), students maintaining vacation or diploma practices, members of workers groups organized by other units and appointed to work in the reporting units of particular particular and particular to work in the reporting units of calcular particular and particular to work in the reporting units of calcular and particular to work in the reporting units of calcular particular and particular to work in the reporting units of calcular particular and particular to work in the reporting units explose or PhD studies, etc., persons employed in intervention and public works, persons on sick leaves.  The data on proportion of women in managerial positions pertain to women employed in one of the "major" occupational groups (according to "Classification of occupations and specialities" – ISCO-08), i.e. the group of managers (  The other "major" occupational groups are:  Professionals  Technicians and associate professionals  Clerical support workers  Service and sales workers  Skilled agricultural, forestry and fishery workers  Craft and related trade workers  Plant and machine operators and assemblers | Sustainable Development Goal   | · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·   |
| Definition  Employed persons are defined as the persons who have worked in the surveyed units for the whole October of the given year, full- or part-time as established for the given enterprise or position.  Unit percent [%]  Available dimensions total  This indicator is calculated from the data obtained in the survey on the structure of wages and salaries by occupations.  The survey on the structure of wages and salaries by occupations is a survey carried out with biennial frequency. It covers enterprises of national economy with the number of the employed persons exceeding 9 persons.  The data cover full- and part-time employees who worked in the surveyed units whole month of October.  The survey does not include: apprentices, persons engaged in outwork (home-workers), students maintaining vacation or diploma practices, members of workers groups organized by other units and appointed to work in the reporting units, e.g. soldiers, labour corps members, convicts, moreover, excluded are: people on maternity or child-care leaves and people appointed to full-time schools or PhD studies, etc., persons employed in intervention and public works, persons on sick leaves.  The data on proportion of women in managerial positions pertain to women employed in one of the "major" occupational groups (according to "Classification of occupations and specialities" – ISCO-08), i.e. the group of managers (.  The other "major" occupational groups are:  Professionals Clerical support workers Service and sales workers Service and sales workers Service and sales workers Plant and machine operators and assemblers Elementary occupations  Data source  Data source  Data every two years; since 2010   | Target                         | 5.5 Ensure women's full and effective participation and equal opportunities for leadership at all levels of decision-making in political, economic and public life  |
| Available dimensions  total  This indicator is calculated from the data obtained in the survey on the structure of wages and salaries by occupations.  The survey on the structure of wages and salaries by occupations is a survey carried out with biennial frequency. It covers enterprises of national economy with the number of the employed persons exceeding 9 persons.  The data cover full- and part-time employees who worked in the surveyed units whole month of October.  The survey does not include: apprentices, persons engaged in outwork (home-workers), students maintaining vacation or diploma practices, members of workers groups organized by other units and appointed to work in the reporting units, e.g. soldiers, labour corps members, convicts; moreover, excluded are: people on maternity or child-care leaves and people appointed to full-time schools or PhD studies, etc., persons employed in intervention and public works, persons on sick leaves.  The data on proportion of women in managerial positions pertain to women employed in one of the "major" occupational groups (according to "Classification of occupations and specialities" – ISCO-08), i.e. the group of managers (.  The other "major" occupational groups are:  Professionals Technicians and associate professionals Clerical support workers Service and sales workers Service and sales workers Service and sales workers Plant and machine operators and assemblers Elementary occupations  Data source Data availability Data every two years; since 2010  | Definition                     | managerial positions.  Employed persons are defined as the persons who have worked in the surveyed units for the whole October of the given year, full- or part-time as established for the given   |
| This indicator is calculated from the data obtained in the survey on the structure of wages and salaries by occupations.  The survey on the structure of wages and salaries by occupations is a survey carried out with biennial frequency. It covers enterprises of national economy with the number of the employed persons exceeding 9 persons.  The data cover full- and part-time employees who worked in the surveyed units whole month of October.  The survey does not include: apprentices, persons engaged in outwork (home-workers), students maintaining vacation or diploma practices, members of workers groups organized by other units and appointed to work in the reporting units, e.g. soldiers, labour corps members, convicts; moreover, excluded are: people on maternity or child-care leaves and people appointed to full-time schools or PhD studies, etc., persons employed in intervention and public works, persons on sick leaves.  The data on proportion of women in managerial positions pertain to women employed in one of the "major" occupational groups (according to "Classification of occupations and specialities" – ISCO-08), i.e. the group of managers (.  The other "major" occupational groups are:  Professionals  Technicians and associate professionals  Clerical support workers  Service and sales workers  Service and sales workers  Service and sales workers  Plant and machine operators and assemblers  Plant and machine operators and assemblers  Elementary occupations  Data source  Data availability  Data every two years; since 2010  | Unit                           | percent [%]   |
| wages and salaries by occupations.  The survey on the structure of wages and salaries by occupations is a survey carried out with biennial frequency. It covers enterprises of national economy with the number of the employed persons exceeding 9 persons.  The data cover full- and part-time employees who worked in the surveyed units whole month of October.  The survey does not include: apprentices, persons engaged in outwork (home-workers), students maintaining vacation or diploma practices, members of workers groups organized by other units and appointed to work in the reporting units, e.g. soldiers, labour corps members, convicts; moreover, excluded are: people on maternity or child-care leaves and people appointed to full-time schools or PhD studies, etc., persons employed in intervention and public works, persons on sick leaves.  The data on proportion of women in managerial positions pertain to women employed in one of the "major" occupational groups (according to "Classification of occupations and specialities" – ISCO-08), i.e. the group of managers (.  The other "major" occupational groups are:  Professionals  Technicians and associate professionals  Clerical support workers  Service and sales workers  Service and sales workers  Craft and related trade workers  Plant and machine operators and assemblers  Elementary occupations  Data source  Data availability  Data every two years; since 2010  | Available dimensions           | total   |
| Data availability Data every two years; since 2010  | Methodologicalexplanations | wages and salaries by occupations.  The survey on the structure of wages and salaries by occupations is a survey carried out with biennial frequency. It covers enterprises of national economy with the number of the employed persons exceeding 9 persons.  The data cover full- and part-time employees who worked in the surveyed units whole month of October.  The survey does not include: apprentices, persons engaged in outwork (home-workers), students maintaining vacation or diploma practices, members of workers groups organized by other units and appointed to work in the reporting units, e.g. soldiers, labour corps members, convicts; moreover, excluded are: people on maternity or child—care leaves and people appointed to full-time schools or PhD studies, etc., persons employed in intervention and public works, persons on sick leaves.  The data on proportion of women in managerial positions pertain to women employed in one of the "major" occupational groups (according to "Classification of occupations and specialities" – ISCO-08), i.e. the group of managers (.  The other "major" occupational groups are:  Professionals  Technicians and associate professionals  Clerical support workers  Service and sales workers  Skilled agricultural, forestry and fishery workers  Craft and related trade workers  Plant and machine operators and assemblers |
|   | Data source                    | Statistics Poland   |
| Notes   | Data availability              | Data every two years; since 2010  |
|   | Notes                          |   |

Last update: 12-04-2022, 09:41