

Statistics for the SDGs - global indicators

| Seriod Seriod equality Seriod Ser | Name of the indicator | 5.2.1 Percentage of women aged 18-74 who have experienced physical, sexual or psychological violence from a current or former partner |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| spheres, including trafficking and sexual and other types of exploitation Percentage of women aged 18-74 who have experienced physical, sexual or psychological violence from a current or former partner during the 12 months preceding the survey. Unit percent [%] Available dimensions The data comes from the study Violence against women. A study at the level of the European Union Carried out by the European Union Agency for Fundamental Rights (European Union Agency for Fundamental Right (European Union Agency for Fundamental Right The results of the study were based on interviews with 42 thousand, women aged 18-74 from all 28 EU Member States (1.5 thousand interviews in each Member State). Respondents were selected using the random selection method. Standard interviews conducted within the framework of the study included questions about physical, sexual and psychological violence, including acts of violence on the part of partners (domestic violence). The study also included questions about persistent stalking, sexual harassment, the role of new technologies in abuse-related experiences and violence in childhood. In the FRA study, women were asked to distinguish the events that took place after the were 15 years of age (during a specified period of life) and events from the 12 months preceding the interview. Questions about partner violence related to any violence that occurred during the relationship. The current partners are those who are married or registered as a partner, live together without marriage or are involved in a relationship without living together. Persons who previously remained in one of the above-mentioned forms of the union are considered as former partners. The results referring to the experiences of women with any partner are based on the answers of the respondents who had at least one previous partner in the course of the study. Data source European Union Agency for Fundamental Rights Data for 2012. "The presented indicator (5.2.1 Percentage of women aged 18-74 who have experience | Sustainable Development Goal | Goal 5. Gender equality |
| Definition psychological violence from a current or former partner during the 12 months preceding the survey. Data source Data source Data updated on Data updated on 19-05-2019 The data comes from the study 'Violence against women. A study at the level of the European Union 'carried out by the European Union Agency for Fundamental Right The data comes from the study Were based on interviews with 42 thousand, women aged 18-7-from all 28 EU Member States (1.5 thousand interviews in each Member State). Respondents were selected using the random selection method. Standard interviews conducted within the framework of the study included question about physical, sexual and psychological violence, including acts of violence on the part of partners (domestic violence). The study also included questions about persistent stalking, sexual harassment, the role of new technologies in abuse-related experiences and violence in childhood. In the FRA study, women were asked to distinguish the events that took place after they were 15 years of age (during a specified period of life) and events from the 12 months preceding the interview. Questions about partner violence related to any violence that occurred during the relationship. The current partners are those who are married or registered as a partner, live together without marriage or are involved in a relationship without living together. Persons who previously remained in one of the above-mentioned forms of the union are considered as former partners. The results referring to the experiences of women with any partner in the course of the study. Data source Data source European Union Agency for Fundamental Rights Data for 2012. The presented indicator (5.2.1 Percentage of women aged 18-74 who have experience physical, sexual or psychological violence from a current or former intimate partner in the previous 12 months | Target | |
| The data comes from the study 'Violence against women. A study at the level of the European Union 'carried out by the European Union Agency for Fundamental Rights (European Union Agency for Fundamental Right The results of the study were based on interviews with 42 thousand, women aged 18-74 from all 28 EU Member States (1.5 thousand interviews in each Member State). Respondents were selected using the random selection method. Standard interviews conducted within the framework of the study included questions about physical, sexual and psychological violence, including acts of violence on the part of partners (domestic violence). The study also included questions about persistent stalking, sexual harassment, the role of new technologies in abuse-related experiences and violence in childhood. In the FRA study, women were asked to distinguish the events that took place after they were 15 years of age (during a specified period of life) and events from the 12 months preceding the interview. Questions about partner violence related to any violence that occurred during the relationship. The current partners are those who are married or registered as a partner, live together without marriage or are involved in a relationship without living together. Persons who previously remained in one of the above-mentored forms of the union are considered as former partners. The results referring to the experiences of women with any partner are based on the answers of the respondents who had at least one previou partner in the course of the study. Data source Data source Data availability Data for 2012. "The presented indicator (5.2.1 Percentage of women aged 18-74 who have experience physical, sexual or psychological violence from a current or former partner; is a proxy indicator to the one adopted in the official list of indicators of the UN Sustainable Development Goals. The replacement of the original indicator (5.2.1 Proportion of everpartnered women and girls aged 15, years and older subjected to physical, sexual or | Definition | psychological violence from a current or former partner during the 12 months preceding |
| The data comes from the study 'Violence against women. A study at the level of the European Union 'carried out by the European Union Agency for Fundamental Rights (European Union Agency for Fundamental Rights The results of the study were based on interviews with 42 thousand. women aged 18-74 from all 28 EU Member States (1.5 thousand interviews in each Member State). Respondents were selected using the random selection method. Standard interviews conducted within the framework of the study included questions about physical, sexual and psychological violence, including acts of violence on the part of partners (domestic violence). The study also included questions about persistent stalking, sexual harassment, the role of new technologies in abuse-related experiences and violence in childhood. In the FRA study, women were asked to distinguish the events that took place after they were 15 years of age (during a specified period of life) and events from the 12 months preceding the interview. Questions about partner violence related to any violence that occurred during the relationship. The current partners are those who are married or registered as a partner, live together without marriage or are involved in a relationship without living together. Persons who previously remained in one of the above-mentioned forms of the union are considered as former partners. The results referring to the experiences of women with any partner are based on the answers of the respondents who had at least one previou partner in the course of the study. Data source European Union Agency for Fundamental Rights Data for 2012. "The presented indicator (5.2.1 Percentage of women aged 18-74 who have experience physical, sexual or psychological violence from a current or former partner; is a proxy indicator to the one adopted in the official list of indicators of the UN Sustainable Development Goals. The replacement of the original indicator (5.2.1 Proportion of everpartnered women and girls aged 15_years and older subjected to phys | Unit | percent [%] |
| European Union 'carried out by the European Union Agency for Fundamental Rights (European Union Agency for Fundamental Rights (European Union Agency for Fundamental Right The results of the study were based on interviews with 42 thousand. women aged 18-74 from all 28 EU Member States (1.5 thousand interviews in each Member State). Respondents were selected using the random selection method. Standard interviews conducted within the framework of the study included questions about physical, sexual and psychological violence, including acts of violence on the part of partners (domestic violence). The study also included questions about persistent stalking, sexual harassment, the role of new technologies in abuse-related experiences and violence in childhood. In the FRA study, women were asked to distinguish the events that took place after they were 15 years of age (during a specified period of life) and events from the 12 months preceding the interview. Questions about partner violence related to any violence that occurred during the relationship. The current partners are those who are married or registered as a partner, live together without marriage or are involved in a relationship without living together. Persons who previously remained in one of the above-mentioned forms of the union are considered as former partners. The results referring to the experiences of women with any partner are based on the answers of the respondents who had at least one previou partner in the course of the study. Data source European Union Agency for Fundamental Rights Data for 2012. "The presented indicator (5.2.1 Percentage of women aged 18-74 who have experience physical, sexual or psychological violence from a current or former partner) is a proxy indicator to the one adopted in the official list of indicators of the UN Sustainable Development Goals. The replacement of the original indicator (5.2.1 Proportion of everpartnered women and girls aged 15_years and older subjected to physical, sexual or psychological violence | Available dimensions | total |
| Data availability Data for 2012. "The presented indicator (5.2.1 Percentage of women aged 18-74 who have experience physical, sexual or psychological violence from a current or former partner) is a proxy indicator to the one adopted in the official list of indicators of the UN Sustainable Development Goals. The replacement of the original indicator (5.2.1 Proportion of everpartnered women and girls aged 15_years and older subjected to physical, sexual or psychological violence by a current or former intimate partner in the previous 12 months by form of violence and by age) is due to the inability to obtain data for it. The proxy indicator has been selected so as to most fully reflect the essence of the observed phenomenon." Data updated on 19-05-2019 | Methodological explanations | (European Union Agency for Fundamental Right The results of the study were based on interviews with 42 thousand. women aged 18-74 from all 28 EU Member States (1.5 thousand interviews in each Member State). Respondents were selected using the random selection method. Standard interviews conducted within the framework of the study included questions about physical, sexual and psychological violence, including acts of violence on the part of partners (domestic violence). The study also included questions about persistent stalking, sexual harassment, the role of new technologies in abuse-related experiences and violence in childhood. In the FRA study, women were asked to distinguish the events that took place after they were 15 years of age (during a specified period of life) and events from the 12 months preceding the interview. Questions about partner violence related to any violence that occurred during the relationship. The current partners are those who are married or registered as a partner, live together without marriage or are involved in a relationship without living together. Persons who previously remained in one of the above-mentioned forms of the union are considered as former partners. The results referring to the experiences of women with any partner are based on the answers of the respondents who had at least one previous |
| "The presented indicator (5.2.1 Percentage of women aged 18-74 who have experience physical, sexual or psychological violence from a current or former partner) is a proxy indicator to the one adopted in the official list of indicators of the UN Sustainable Development Goals. The replacement of the original indicator (5.2.1 Proportion of everpartnered women and girls aged 15_years and older subjected to physical, sexual or psychological violence by a current or former intimate partner in the previous 12 months by form of violence and by age) is due to the inability to obtain data for it. The proxy indicator has been selected so as to most fully reflect the essence of the observed phenomenon." Data updated on 19-05-2019 | Data source | European Union Agency for Fundamental Rights |
| physical, sexual or psychological violence from a current or former partner) is a proxy indicator to the one adopted in the official list of indicators of the UN Sustainable Development Goals. The replacement of the original indicator (5.2.1 Proportion of everpartnered women and girls aged 15_years and older subjected to physical, sexual or psychological violence by a current or former intimate partner in the previous 12 months by form of violence and by age) is due to the inability to obtain data for it. The proxy indicator has been selected so as to most fully reflect the essence of the observed phenomenon." Data updated on 19-05-2019 | Data availability | Data for 2012. |
| Data updated on 19-05-2019 | Notes | indicator to the one adopted in the official list of indicators of the UN Sustainable Development Goals. The replacement of the original indicator (5.2.1 Proportion of ever-partnered women and girls aged 15_years and older subjected to physical, sexual or psychological violence by a current or former intimate partner in the previous 12 months, by form of violence and by age) is due to the inability to obtain data for it. The proxy indicator has been selected so as to most fully reflect the essence of the observed |
| | Data updated on | |
| |   | |